Recent exercise geared to new summer arrivals

By Staff Sgt. Nathan Gallahan
Wolf Pack public affairs

The Wolf Pack flexed its muscles last week during a two day exercise. "The objective of the last operational readiness exercise was to familiarize all the new leadership and new members of the Wolf Pack with how exercises are conducted here, in order to prepare them for the upcoming [Peninsula Combat Employment Readiness Exercises] and [Operational Readiness Inspection]," said Capt. Mike Tuason, chief of 8th Fighter Wing plans and programs. "As the ORI gets closer, training and exercises will become more and more intense."

With the ORE's main goal being familiarization, the plans and programs office wasn't particularly "grading" each unit's performance, but that didn't prevent some work centers from shining early in the exercise year.

"Kudos and a 'pat on the back' goes out to the command post controllers for being well-versed and 100 percent compliant on spot ability to survive and operate checks," he said. One of the keys to an outstanding performance during an ORI doesn't originate from only practicing ATSO during exercises, but from creating and maintaining an environment of readiness year around. Staff Sgt. Darin Huehl, Wolf Pack command post, NCOIC of command and control systems, said his team does just that.

"It comes as no surprise that command post controllers were identified for their outstanding performance," said Maj. Thomas Cox,

Personnel, leaders key to ensuring ‘no loss of life’ during holiday weekend

By Army Gen. B.B. Bell
United States Forces Korea commander

Two hundred and thirty years ago, 56 distinguished gentlemen representing the original 13 colonies of the United States signed the most important document in our nation’s history – the Declaration of Independence. America’s citizens continue to celebrate this achievement every 4th of July by paying tribute not only to the birth of our nation, but also to our servicemembers deployed worldwide who unselfishly guard our time-honored freedoms.

As you celebrate our nation’s birthday and enjoy the long holiday weekend, everyone must be fully engaged in preventing off-duty accidents, injuries and deaths.

We must meet “Under the Oak Tree” with our servicemembers and reaffirm our commitment to protecting our most valuable asset – our Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Marines, civilian employees, and family members.

The Independence Day weekend is a great chance for USFK personnel to travel and participate in various activities around the Korean peninsula.

Whether your plans include traveling, having a BBQ picnic or participating in on-post activities, identify the hazards you might confront, mitigate the risks, and ensure that you can execute the activities safely.

Primary risks this time of year are alcohol abuse, fatigue, dehydration, over confidence in our abilities, and under estimating summer weather hazards.

Use the appropriate protective equipment for the activities you’re engaged in and check each other’s wellness during vigorous activities. Leaders must be aggressive in preventing alcohol abuse and criminal acts of violence such as sexual assaults.

Leaders, your involvement is essential to keeping our USFK family safe. Ensure your first line supervisors meet with each of their personnel “Under the Oak Tree,” discuss their holiday plans and establish a verbal “behavior contract.”

These meetings are an opportunity for you to have a dialogue with your personnel and establish parameters for their off-duty activities and behavior. Follow the buddy system and ensure our curfew hours are enforced.

Commanders’ and leaders’ commitment to the well-being of our people resulted in no loss of life during the last holiday period.

Let “no loss of life” be the end state for this upcoming holiday weekend as well. With engaged leadership and commitment to positively impacting risky behavior by our subordinates, we will not suffer needless tragedies and loss of life.

Have a great National Birthday celebration, and please be safe.

We Go Together!

Tell me, is there a bus from Kunsan to Abilene?

By Maj. Mark McCloud
8th Civil Engineer Squadron commander

Have you ever heard of the bus to Abilene? No, this isn’t a new Wolf Pack Wheels route. Some of you may have heard this expression and know what I’m talking about. It comes from an anecdote written by management expert Jerry B. Harvey. His 1988 book, The Abilene Paradox and other Meditations on Management, tells the story like this:

On a hot afternoon in Coleman, Texas, a family is comfortably playing dominoes on their porch, until the father-in-law suggests they take a trip to Abilene (53 miles away) for dinner. The wife says, “Sounds like a great idea.” The husband, despite having reservations because the drive is long and hot, thinks his preferences must be out-of-step with the group and says, “Sounds good to me; I just hope your mother wants to go.” The mother-in-law then says, “Of course I want to go. I haven’t been to Abilene in a long time.” The car ride is hot (no air-conditioning), dusty and long. When they arrive at the cafeteria, the food is just as bad. They arrive back home four hours later, exhausted. One of them dishonestly says, “It was a great trip, wasn’t it.” The mother-in-law says that, actually, she would rather have stayed home, but went along since the other three were so enthusiastic. The husband says, “I wasn’t delighted to be doing what we were doing. I only went to satisfy the rest of you.” The wife says, “I just went along to keep you happy. I would have had to been crazy to want to go out in the heat like that.” The father-in-law then says that he only suggested it because he thought the others might be bored. The group sits back, perplexed they together decided to take a trip which none of them wanted.

They each would have preferred to stay home, but did not admit to it when they still had time to enjoy the afternoon.

This phenomenon, known as “the Abilene paradox,” occurs when groups continue with misguided activities which no group member desires because no member is willing to raise objections. During your stay at Kunsan, you’ll undoubtedly have several opportunities to get on the bus to Abilene. It may be on duty and falling into the trap of going along with your co-workers who are engaged in an unsafe practice, even when everyone knows better. Or it may be off-duty when you and your friends go out on the weekend without a wingman. So, like my Army engineer friends always used to tell me when I was deployed: “There will be a lot of people encouraging you to get on the bus, but don’t listen to them — don’t get on the bus to Abilene.”

The Action Line is a direct line to me. Call 782-2004 and include your name, telephone number and a brief description of your problem. You can also send an e-mail to 8FW/CCActionLine.

command post OIC. “Since I arrived here a year ago, each one of them has maintained extremely high standards supporting the Wolf flowing information daily and during crisis both in and out of the wing from all levels of command.”

“I knew from the minute I stepped into this command post that we took this mission seriously; these exercises are training us for what could potentially happen in real life,” said Senior Airman Mike Uloth, command post controller. “My supervision has given me the tools I need to survive and exceed in any scenario, whether real or an exercise.”

Although the command post can be considered an example of readiness, everyone can find areas to improve, and the plans and programs office can help.

“Our mission is to ensure the Wolf Pack’s readiness and lethality. Wing XP is here to ‘sharpen the claws and the teeth of the Wolf Pack,’” Capt. Tuason said.

Wolf’s Top 10 ATSO points

(Editor’s note: The following ability to survive and operate, or ATSO tips have been provided by the Wolf Pack plans and programs office to help Wolf Pack Airmen succeed during exercises.)

- ❑ Identification card – Always carry a military identification card and line badge (if applicable).
- ❑ GC card – Always carry a Geneva Convention card
- ❑ Exercise and real-world manuals – To stay up to date on ATSO-related information, read Air Force Instruction 10-100, or the Airman’s Manual, as well as the Kunsan-specific ATSO guide.
- ❑ Hydrate – Always keep canteens full.
- ❑ IPE gear – Wear IPE gear properly.
- ❑ Inspect gas masks – Have gas masks inspected, fit tested and carry documentation.
- ❑ M-9 tape – Double check M-9 tape placement.
- ❑ Have a sense of urgency.
- ❑ Keep safety in mind.
- ❑ Hone attention to detail.

35th FS, AMU foster joint relations during ‘Sling’

By Senior Airman Stephen Collier
Wolf Pack public affairs

The 35th Fighter Squadron and Aircraft Maintenance Unit returned from Singapore Saturday after completing the 16th consecutive Operation Commando Sling joint warfare exercise, helping to foster better relations with that country’s air force.

The 29-day deployment pitted the 35th FS, commonly referred to as the “Pantons,” against Royal Singaporean Air Force F-16s and F-5s in the skies over the South China Sea.

Capt. Brian Healy, 35th FS B-Flight commander and Commando Sling project coordinator, said the Panton fliers learned how to seamlessly integrate Wolf Pack forces to achieve overall success.

“We were extremely impressed with the tactical level and readiness the RSAF displayed,” he said. “We also learned quite a bit about how they operate their aircraft and turn their F-5 force into a sneaky fighter that can’t be ignored.”

While there, the Panton fliers participated in basic fighter maneuvers and two-on-two engagements with the exercise culminating in Wolf Pack F-16s taking on two of the highly maneuverable Singapore F-16s and F-5s at a time.

But with every unfamiliar, deployed location, Wolf Pack members can always be faced with a new set of challenges to overcome. Capt. Healy said operators were left with a tightly-controlled airspace due to Singapore’s very dense air traffic.

“Imagine placing all of the (United States Forces Korea) air presence from the (Republic of Korea) as well as an international airport all within the airspace that Kunsan (radar approach and control) controls. That’s what you have in Singapore,” Capt. Healy pointed out. “There isn’t room for deviation and any sort is quickly noticed. We found ourselves having to operate under strict scrutiny and without the normal flexibility that operating from your home turf offers.”

Wolf Pack members also had to chance to experience local flavors from the predominately Asian nation. Singapore, a land mixed between native Singaporeans as well as Indians, Thai, Filipinos, Indonesians and Malaysians, offers the visitor an up-close look at a melting pot of cultures and civilizations in a 27-square mile area.

Capt. Healy noted Commando Sling deployments for the Wolf Pack are important for several reasons.

“It (Commando Sling) demonstrates to the world our commitment to the stability of the region as well as fostering a bond between the RSAF and the USAF,” he said. “Secondly, it’s one of the very few deployments we get to do from Kunsan and therefore, a rare opportunity to demonstrate Wolf Pack capabilities. Anytime we can train with other nations, especially one as competent as Singapore, it enhances our learning and training.”

Preparing for a typhoon

Preparing for the hit

- ✦ Have emergency supplies and phone numbers readily available.
- ✦ Know where your shelter is and the quickest way to get there.
- ✦ Have some extra water.

Before the hit

- ✦ Watch the Commander's Access Channel for the latest information
- ✦ Secure objects outside of buildings
- ✦ Fill sinks and bathtubs with water as an extra supply for washing.
- ✦ Close all curtains to reduce the risk of breakage and flying glass.
- ✦ Close and lock all unneeded doors

During the hit

- ✦ Watch the Commander's Access Channel for the latest information

- ✦ Stay away from windows and exterior doors
- ✦ Do not go outside.

After the hit

- ✦ Watch the CAC for the latest information
- ✦ Do not drink the flood waters.
- ✦ Stay out of flood waters. The water may be contaminated or electrically charged.
- ✦ Stay away from downed power lines to avoid the risk of electric shock or electrocution.
- ✦ Await further word on post-storm actions.

Engineers improve Camp Bucca

June 23 – More than 400 miles from Logistical Support Area Anaconda, the 84th Engineer Combat Battalion (Heavy), 130th Engineer Brigade, participated in a mission to improve force protection measures for the largest internment camp in the Multinational Corps-Iraq area of operations. Heavy equipment operators, light equipment operators (graders and loaders) and mechanics from A Company took part in the mission. Also, three soldiers from Headquarters Support Company accompanied A Company’s horizontal construction platoon as dump truck operators.

AFGHANISTAN

Army relies on C-130 ‘Herc’

Monday – The U.S. military has turned to an old workhorse as the delivery method for supplies and humanitarian cargo needed to sustain Operation Enduring Freedom.

The C-130 Hercules has been around, in one form or another, since the 1950s. It is the aircraft of choice for inter-theater airlift in Afghanistan, where the U.S. Army is conducting operations from areas located on some of the toughest terrain on the planet.

The last time “Herc” crews flew combat airdrops at this level was the Vietnam War. “It’s the perfect tool to use in this theater,” said Lt. Col. Mike Feeley, a C-130 navigator deployed to the 774th Expeditionary Airlift Squadron from the Delaware Air National Guard’s 142nd Airlift Squadron.

The 774th is an amalgam of Airmen from Air National Guard units in Texas, Delaware, Alaska, Tennessee, Rhode Island and Michigan, as well as two active-duty units from Elmendorf AFB, Alaska, and Yokota AB, Japan.

Duties: NCOIC, commander support staff
Hometown: St. Louis
Hobbies: Running
Favorite music: Alternative and rythm and blues
Follow-on: Lackland AFB, Texas
Last good movie: “Failure to Launch”
Best thing you’ve done here: “I reached my personal goal of making technical sergeant.”

“Sergeant Adams is responsible for all CSS functions for the group commander, two squadron commanders and 154 personnel. She advises the commanders and the first sergeant on all policies and procedures regarding group members.

Sgt. Adams has focused on one main point since her arrival to the Medical Group and that was to ensure the groups success during the unit compliance inspection. Her tireless efforts ensured the medical group had zero personnel overdue for testing and ensured Fitness Improvement folders exceeded inspection requirements.

Sgt. Adams is the example of what other NCOs must strive to be.”

SGLI premium rate changes July 1

WASHINGTON (AFP) — The monthly premium rate for basic Servicemember's Group Life Insurance increases by 5 cents per month for each $10,000 of coverage, from 65 cents per month per $10,000 to 70 cents per month per $10,000, effective July 1. On the same date, family SGLI premiums will decrease across the board.

The most recent SGLI premium change occurred in July 2003, when the monthly premium rate for basic SGLI was reduced from 80 cents per $10,000 of insurance to 65 cents per $10,000. That change was made to reduce surplus reserve funds in the program.

A small increase in the SGLI premium rate is now necessary for the program to remain in sound financial condition, while covering the cost of peacetime claims.

The cost of wartime SGLI claims is borne by the uniformed services, not by servicemembers. As a result of this increase, members who have the maximum $400,000 of SGLI coverage will see their monthly SGLI deduction from service pay increase by $2 a month, from $27 to $29, beginning with their July pay.

This monthly SGLI premium includes a $1 per month charge for traumatic injury protection coverage, which took effect Dec. 1 and provides payments of up to $100,000 for serious traumatic injuries.

Also in July, family SGLI monthly premium rates will be reduced for all age groups by an average of 10 percent. The new rates reflect better-than-expected claims experience for each age group in the family SGLI program.

Wolf Pack ‘Is a TEAM’

By Senior Airman Stephen Collier
Wolf Pack public affairs

Editor’s Note: Chief Master Sgt. Reggie Williams recently became the 8th Fighter Wing’s new command chief master sergeant. The Wolf Pack Warrior recently interviewed the chief to get his impressions of the base and its people.

Wolf Pack Warrior: What are your impressions of the Wolf Pack, in particular the base’s enlisted force?

Chief Williams: “I am very impressed with the tremendous dedication and awesome effort expended daily by every member of the Wolf Pack TEAM.

Our heroic men and women are consistently ensuring we are able to Defend the Base, Accept Follow-On Forces and are maintaining the very important mindset that we must be prepared to Take the Fight North. This takes a total TEAM ... not individuals.

I’m especially impressed how our chiefs, first sergeants and senior NCOs have embraced our leadership concept and are continuing to work to ensure that every Wolf Pack Airman is mission focused and they truly understand what they do daily really have a direct impact on the 8th Fighter Wing’s ability to Fly, Fight and Win.”

The last word: Chief Williams

Family: The chief is married to his wife Terrie of 25 years and they have three daughters, including daughter Latasha Aragon, an Air Force staff sergeant; Shanique, a senior airman; and Tanisha, a high school senior.
Hometown: El Dorado, Ark.
Current book on his nightstand: The Leadership

Secret of Army Gen. Colin Powell, former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff

Favorite sports team: The chief chooses the Dallas Cowboys as his favorite team. “I’m a die-hard Cowboys fan,” he said with excitement. The chief also enjoys the Miami Heat.

Favorite music group or performer: The chief doesn’t have a favorite, but loves jazz as well as “oldies but goodies” music.
Pet peeve: Negative attitudes, people who lack a sense of urgency and those who don’t stay in their lane of expertise concern the chief.

Personal secret: “Yes, I do, but I think we all do. My family will be able to tell you better than I could or would.”

Wolf Chief’s Four Pillars of Excellence

- ❑ Pillar No. 1 – Develop RELATIONSHIPS through all encounters.
- ❑ Pillar No. 2 – RESPECT toward all.
- ❑ Pillar No. 3 – Building TRUST among each other.
- ❑ Pillar No. 4 – Open and honest COMMUNICATION with everyone.

WPW: What do you see as major challenges facing the base’s enlisted force?

Chief Williams: “Our Air Force and our Wing are undergoing some major changes for the better. We have to work together as a TEAM to try to understand, embrace and trust our leaders as we flow through the course. Clearly, a positive attitude and mission-focused approach will allow us to prevail. I’m expecting our middle-grade NCOs to take a more active role in leading and taking care of our most precious resource ... our young Airmen.”

WPW: How would you define your leadership philosophy?

Chief Williams: “I expect every enlisted member to be dedicated warriors, always professional and have a strong passion for excellence. Every enlisted activity or function must be well planned and have a ‘touch of class.’ I want anyone who witnesses the Wolf Pack’s efforts to leave here marveled by the first-class display of our Wolf Pack Airmen. I enjoy developing our people, thus ensuring that members of the Wolf Pack leave here even better prepared as supervisors to tackle challenges that lie ahead in their Air Force careers. Our Airmen will continue to grow and develop to view any obstacle as a ‘challenge’ and not as an issue by being positive and open minded.”

WPW: What advice do you have for Airmen at Kunsan?

Chief Williams: “Leadership is not a choice; never pass up an opportunity to lead. Over time, every Wolf Pack member will see the Wolf and I, along with other senior leaders, truly care about them and their families. I can’t stress enough that all of our Airmen’s sacrifices are appreciated immensely by our great nation, our Air Force, this command and this Wing. We will ensure they have the best working and living conditions available. A tremendous amount of my energy will be geared toward ensuring every supervisor has the mindset and clear understanding of the responsibilities that they’re entrusted with the most valuable responsibility they could ever have in the Air Force: being leaders of America’s finest son’s and daughters ... our Air Force war fighters.”

Wolf Pack teams take down Army in four

The Kunsan men’s and women’s varsity softball teams swept doubleheaders here Saturday against Camp Humphreys. Sunday’s games were cancelled due to rain. The men’s team took its first game 17-7, and then held of a late rally by the visitors to win the second contest 16-15.

“These wins are a real big boost for our team,” said head coach John Charleston. “We had good pitching, good hitting and good defense.”

When Camp Humphreys came back in the second contest, Charleston said his team “showed heart and stayed in there” to get the win.

The Lady Wolves also picked up wins over the Camp Humphreys women, 17-1 and 6-4.

The Kunsan varsity teams will travel to Osan this weekend to play the host team and also play makeup games against Camp Humphreys. The Kunsan men will do so with a new starting pitcher. Tim Haag, the staff ace, tossed his last game last weekend before departing for a new assignment. Joseph Curtis and Donald White will now share pitching responsibilities, according to Charleston.

AT THE MOVIES

“THE FAST AND THE FURIOUS: TOKYO DRIFT”

Rating: PG-13 for reckless and illegal teen behavior, violence, language and sexual content

Starring: Lucas Black, Shad “Bow Wow” Gregory Moss

Synopsis: Sean Boswell is an outsider who attempts to define himself as a hot-headed, underdog street racer.

Although racing provides a temporary escape from an unhappy home and the superficial world around him, it has also made Sean unpopular with the local authorities.

To avoid jail time, Sean is sent to live with his gruff, estranged father, a career military-man stationed in Tokyo.

Show times: 7 and 9:30 p.m. today and Saturday

“BASIC INSTINCT 2”

Rating: R for strong sexuality, nudity, violence, language and drug content

Starring: Sharon Stone and David Morrissey

Synopsis: After re-locating from San Francisco to London, best-selling crime novelist Catherine Trammell once again finds herself on the wrong side of the law.

Dr. Michael Glass, a respected London criminal psychiatrist, is brought in by Scotland Yard detective Roy Washburn to perform a psychiatrist profile and evaluation of Trammell following the mysterious death of a top sports star.

Show times: 6 p.m. Sunday

“SILENT HILL”

Rating: R for horror violence, gore, disturbing images and language

Starring: Radha Mitchell and Sean Bean

Synopsis: When the doctor of a troubled young girl recommends permanent psychiatric institutionalization and the girl’s concerned mother refuses to accept the grim diagnosis, the mother and daughter flee to a strange abandoned town to seek out answers.

Sharon is a very sick child, yet rather than seeing her child suffer the cruel indignities of the medical profession, Rose ignores her husband’s pleas and absconds with her ailing daughter to the fog-enshrouded town of Silent Hill.

Show times: 8:30 p.m. Sunday

(Movie dates and times are subject to change)

Donated computers help Philippine youth get

By Senior Airman Stephen Collier

Airmen from the 35th Fighter Squadron and Aircraft Maintenance Unit, deployed to Singapore in support of Operation Commando Sling, took time out of their flying schedule to launch Philippine schools into the information super highway in June.

Deployed members conducted a computer donation drive, resulting in donations from local Singapore citizens. The drive netted more than 50 computer monitors, 15 computer processing units, five scanners and four overhead projectors.

Afterward, each computer and accessory was refurbished with up to date software and were shipped to the Philippines.

First Lt. Kerri Fulgham, 35th FS project coordinator, said the donation drive was important because it took computers and electronics, otherwise earmarked for disposal, and put them in the hands of Philippine youth.

"These children had never used a computer before, so this was pretty cool," Lt. Fulgham said. "The final moment after we got all the computers and electronics together in the warehouse, we could see the amount of goods we were sending to the Philippine kids. We definitely had a good feeling when it was all done."

Both pilots and maintainers supported the donation through manual labor. Vehicles to transport the computers came from the AMU. Staff Sgt. Tracy Williams, 35th AMU, thought the community event was important because Wolf Pack members were given the opportunity to reach out to the community.

"One thing that really stood out and made not only me, but everybody else smile, is when we got our pep talk before we started working on how each computer was going to be installed in each school," Sgt. Williams said. "I [could] just imagine the look on the kid's faces when they receive the computers. That made my day."

The project, coordinated through the 497th Combat Training Squadron based in Singapore, also brought together the leadership of the unit and the local Singaporean school system.

Lt. Col. Pete York, commander of the 497th, said the donation drive was a win-win situation for the United States.

"We got the chance to help those who needed our help while showing the generosity of the American people, all the while strengthening ties with an important partner in the region," he said. "I'm very proud the Wolf Pack stepped up for this worthy volunteer effort."

Lt. Fulgham added everyone had a good feeling when the drive was over.

Satff Sgt. Jessica German (center), 35th Aircraft Maintenance Unit, carries a computer monitor to an awaiting trailer. More than 15 Wolf Pack members assisted with the Singapore computer donation drive.

Computer processing units, monitors and other computer accesaries are packed for their trip to a shiping yard bound for the Philippines. Wolf Pack members collected more than 50 computer monitors, 15 computer processing units, five scanners and four overhead projectors.
